Re: Environmental Protection Agency ID. No. WAD 009036906

Section 3019(a) of the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA), as amended November 8, 1984, requires that each permit application for a final determination, for a landfill or surface impoundment, be accompanied by information on the potential for the public to be exposed to hazardous wastes or hazardous constituents through releases from the unit.

You are to submit this information to the EPA by either August 8, 1985 or with your Part B whichever is later.

In order to assist you in the gathering of this information, we have enclosed a copy of the "Permit Applicant's Guidance Manual for Exposure Information Requirements Under RCRA Section 3019."

In the preparation of your Exposure Information Report (EIR), any relevant information already submitted as a part of the Part B application does not need to be re-submitted; however, you must cross-reference the location of this information. In general, most of this information should be readily available from existing records. You must submit an explanation of why any missing information could not be obtained. Applicants who provide all of the information discussed in the EIR guidance manual will generally be considered to have met the Section 3019 information requirements. We may use other authorities, such as Sections 3004(u) or 3008(h), to obtain other more definitive information.

You should address all applicable pathways for all relevant disposal units in your discussion of the potential for human exposure. These discussions should result in conclusions, presented in an executive summary, concerning the potential for and possible magnitude of any human exposures. Any information used in the EIR and not included should be documented and referenced.
